

Hidden

Once my friend told me “ day we are playing a role.” and I believe he was right. Actually there are private moments of people’s lives that we can discover them without playing any roles. This really makes a very strong potential behind these moments to create many stories that we can guess around the characters who we could see through their private moments. "Hidden " this is a magic word that was made based on private moments. All of your stories based on masked characters that you see.

Mona Sartoveh