

Paris

Epiphany

While photographing in nature I long to let go of my own energie to find a frequence where I can meet nature and be together. Not to capture our seperated worlds but emerge into the moment that those boudries are no longer there.

I don't want to be the viewer, obsurver or just registrate but learning a new language together with nature.

Photos are made in natural areas in The Netherlands, and in national parcs and European wildernesses as documented by the European Wilderness Society : Germany Koningsbruckerheide, Tzech Republic Podyji national park.