

Magdalena Orylska - „Sirens“

The series of photographs inspired of carefree childhood. As mother of two I'm privileged to witness how those little ones discover the world and one another. Being with them in the swimming pool has showed me how easy, freely and naturally they feel in the water even that they don't know how to swim properly.

From the very beginning the water became a natural environment for them that inspired me that they feel almost like sirens. I'm fascinated how their body naturally behave under water, they don't calculate or think, their body automatically adjusts, what brings me in mind that it still remembers how it was during pregnancy period.
