nty Raimi

Everything happens in Colombia, located to the southwest of Nariño. The place is called Putumayo. It is recognized for its diverse valleys and mountains. In the Putumayo live several indigenous communities Kamentza, ingas and Quillas ingas. The parties of the raimi year or new year are celebrated on December 21 until January, usually each indigenous community has its own parties and also autonomy to decide when to do them.

It all starts in the town hall mayor of Putumayo, Colombia. There is the castle with its bare bread buses or only with its plastic bag, then they leave there and each person will join in the path. The community is with its traditional trajectory and carries its bus in its arm, we see the majority of the family of a governor and his granddaughters. The smile and the look of the Taita relate us to the tradition that endures. Men who dress as women or mojigangas is to highlight the value of it. Although in Colombia there are some institutions that enter, the community accepts strangers.
