

My name is Carolina Cornejo, I live in Panamá, Central America. I am an architect and I work at an architecture studio that do mostly rehabilitation designs and plans for the old and preserved buildings in Casco Antiguo (the Old city of Panama)

I begin in photograph taking pictures of nature and the places I visit; then I wanted to shot impressive and creative pictures of buildings because of my love to my career. I use my spare time to take photographs at any place I visit but mostly in Casco Antiguo because that's where I spend most of my time.

I want to present this photographs in the free theme category as "Architecture"

This is a series of pictures that I shot in Casco, and what I want to show in some pictures is the contrast of the old buildings that are not architectural rehabilitated and the ones that are. Visitors can observe the beauty of this small city but also can see some that are in process.

This photographs want to show the beauty in the imperfect elements of the buildings, the mixture of facades, the palette of colors, details that people can't see at first glance; sowing a seed of curiosity for people to visit this beautiful city.
