

PRICE OF MILK

Milk plays a very important role in health issue. The valuable supplements got from the milk are fundamental to the human body and help to prevent a number of chronic ailments.

As we all know, that milk is an agricultural product, extracted from farm animals during or soon after pregnancy, India remains the largest producer of milk, stood at 165 million tones in 2016-17 and is the leading exporter of skimmed milk powder. It is projected that by 2019, the dairy market of India will reach a value of approximately INR 6,198 crores.

So, it is observed that this ever-increasing value of Milk both economically and socially is only based on the farm animals. But how are they treated!! What value we return to these animals??

Price of Milk is a photographic approach towards the lifestyle of these farm animals and a work on their rights. Animal rights are the idea that the most basic interests of non-human animals should be afforded the same consideration as the human being. Every single living thing has a privilege to live on this Earth, but we, often become insensitive to their pain, only because they do not have a voice. Everything on this Earth has a well-defined purpose, thus, there is a need to protect the rights of animals, only then can they be saved and the balance of nature can be maintained.
