I believe to embrace where change needs to be done, have a stronger impact, than to expose the issue. Exposing issues is the way of photography we have seen through many years. But humans have a tendency to turn the blind eye on when the reality is too hard to face. And our world are facing real issues these days. But this is not the end. Cause the end can be not be defeated with fear. Or with force.

Not with war. Nor with ego. The answer to conquer will always be love. To be united. To raise people up instead of putting people down. Women for the first time in history are being heard. Are being seen. They are half of the worlds population.

They have collected strength though out the years of silence. Of observing. Of waiting for the right moment. The moment is now. To raise each other up, and to do the right thing. To create a better place for everyone. This is The Silent Army.
