

Title: The Working Force of Tea Garden

Description:

Female workers of a tea Garden in Sylhet , Bangladesh. The lower caste people came from different providences of India like Bihar, Udisha, Uttar Padesh, Andhra Pradesh are basically the workers in different tea gardens in Bangladesh. At the time of British rule the ancestors of these workers have been brought forcefully from their home land to work in these tea gardens.

Several times they tried to return back to their own land, but failed. The works work very hard to meet up the daily target but paid only 100 taka daily. They take very limited & ordinary lunch at the time of their work. They lead a very poor & unhealthy life too. They looked very happy when I asked them to be my model. Primarily they did not allow me to take their photographs. I promised them not to disclose their identity by mentioning their name, and they agreed and allowed me to capture their photographs.
